SOUNDCLOUD

CONNECTING WITH LISTENERS AND CREATORS

SoundCloud is a leading audio distribution and music sharing platform that allows users to upload, promote, and stream audio. Artists such as Billie Eilish, Post Malone, Khalid, and Lorde use SoundCloud's services to launch music and grow their followers. The SoundCloud app offers both free and paid subscription services to customers. For artists, there is a paid subscription to enable them to connect to fans.

- SoundCloud sets ambitious acquisition targets within a highly competitive music streaming market, aiming to increase app installs and sign ups at low CPAs
- Creative messaging is tailored to each audience segment based on their need state. Bespoke creative was made for listeners and creators to drive the most efficient engagement.
- As the relationship developed, the team has continued to seek new ways to drive efficient growth across web and app campaigns for the client. This led to a proposal to test Influencers specifically on TikTok.

HARNESSING INFLUENCERS TO DRIVE NEW USERS

SOUNDCLOUD

THE BRIEF

The ongoing objective is to increase app installs and sign ups from new users. In this specific brief, TikTok users were the target audience. Utilizing Influencers that had a following that matched the target audience of SoundCloud was key to drive awareness to a previously untapped audience.

THE CHALLENGE

Business challenges include user acquisition, ensuring that there is an ongoing stream of new users downloading the app. At the same time, competition with top players in the music streaming and audio space is fierce. The challenge is to support fan acquisition campaigns while testing new channels.

There were guidelines in place as to what type of Influencers were suitable for the campaign. For example, a diverse group of artists to showcase the wide range of genres and artists must have a minimum of 400k followers.

THE APPROACH

Select nine artists to create content that was authentic to TikTok rather than having been produced for other channels. The artists created content that prompted followers to download SoundCloud and start listening to music. They had to include a link in their bio, create a short video, and use relevant hashtags e.g., #ad. Content was posted organically and best performing creative was boosted through paid Spark Ads.

AN ACTION PLANNING APPROACH

Harnessing our Action Planning approach (used for all hypothesis testing we do with new and existing campaigns), we noted three key aspects core to our strategy to ensure a successful campaign.

These three areas were:

AUDIENCE

In order to reach new audiences, it was important to convey the SoundCloud value propositions directly to potential fans, such as the diversity of music genres available on the app.

We carefully chose influencers specific to the brief and they created content that fitted the desire of the audience to discover new music, which were posted organically.

CONTENT

The strategy was to focus on content that feels genuine and authentic to the platform rather than reusing content that had been developed for other channels. Creative authenticity is particularly important on social, especially TikTok, where users come to be entertained and use the platform for discovery.

CONVERSIONS

By providing the campaigns with both new audiences and new targeted assets, we were able to achieve the lowest CPA of the channel's history.

We also utilized Spark Ads to boost the best content created, furthering reach to an audience not reached organically. This activity directly optimized towards conversions, which increased the efficiency of the overall campaign.

ORGANIC ENGAGEMENT

The Influencers greatly enjoyed being a part of the campaign.

In some cases, they went on to create more videos promoting SoundCloud, beyond what was required of them in the brief.

Audience engagement was also overwhelmingly positive.

The vast number of comments helped further reach and increase brand sentiment.
