Background

Indoor Gaming Platform

Five Iron Golf is a popular indoor golfing experience with venues across America, Australia, and Dubai. Previously they only invested in OOH direct with suppliers and found it hard to identify the impact of the channel.

Objective

Drive Brand Awareness

The goal was to drive measurable brand and performance lift through a targeted OOH campaign across 4 key U.S. cities.

Challenge

Multi-city Campaign

The challenge was to turn a traditionally awareness-first channel like OOH into a proven growth driver for Five Iron Golf across four competitive U.S. cities.

Our Approach

To deliver precision at scale, we activated a fully programmatic DOOH strategy. We built curated whitelists of high-impact venues tailored to each city, ensuring we showed up where relevance and attention were highest. By layering daypart and week part scheduling, we aligned messaging with real-world behaviors, maximizing visibility when and where it mattered most.

Our presence extended beyond traditional street-level formats like billboards, bus shelters, and street hubs. We strategically expanded into commuter-heavy touchpoints and lifestyle venues, including subway stations, office buildings, taxis, rideshare vehicles, and bars, driving both reach and contextual relevance across multiple audience mindsets.

To understand true effectiveness, we didn't stop at impressions. We ran a Brand Lift Study to measure perception shifts and partnered closely with the client to analyze post-campaign sales data, helping isolate media-driven uplift and demonstrate the channel's full-funnel impact.
